One National Organization
For Handling Wheat Crop
Is Advocated in Commons

By JAMES MCCOOK

OTTAWA, July 7.—(CP)—E. E. Perley, Progressive Conservative member for Qu'Appelle constituency in Saskatchewan, said yesterday in the Commons he favored completely nationalizing the marketing, handling, shipping, storing and financing of the Canadian wheat crop, under the Canadian Wheat Board.

"That is going a long distance, but I would setup one national organization to take control of the whole thing," he continued.

"That might involve taking over all the grain elevators."

He made the suggestion because "there is something wrong in the handling of our wheat crop."

SPEAKS IN DEBATE

Mr. Perley, a wheat farmer, spoke in continued debate on the budget.

He said he believed farmers could well be exempted from taxation.

In addition to Mr. Perley, G. H. Castleden (CCF—Yorkton), and Maj. A. J. Lapointe (L—Matapedia-Matane) spoke in the debate.

Mr. Perley said the elimination of duty on farm implements entering Canada would mean little saving to the farmer, who spent only 3-5 cents of 100 cents of expenditure in buying implements. The removal of duty would mean a saving of only one-eighth cent on a bushel of wheat.

Supporting his suggestion that farmers be exempt from taxation, Mr. Perley said no industry had more years of operation that showed less and faced more hazardous and difficult conditions. In 1942 only 1,488 farmers paid income tax. "Why bother with them at all?" he asked.

SEES HIGHER PRICE

If the open wheat market operations had been allowed to continue wheat prices today would be $2 a bushel. If the price was on a parity with that received by United Kingdom and United States farmers it would be at least $1.42, instead of $1.25 a bushel basis No. 1 Northern at Fort William.

The wheat board handles less than 50 per cent of the crop, but the cost of brokerage or commission fees, storage fees, interest and bank charges and administration charges for the 1944, 1945 and 1946 crops had been $85,000,000. The grain firms, the commission companies and the banks had received "an exorbitant share of the total value of the grain."

The agriculture committee had been informed there were some 5,000 interior grain elevators, and George McIvor, wheat board chairman, had estimated they would cost an average of perhaps $12,000 each.

"If they were taken over at that figure the total would be $60,000,000, but as I have pointed out the firms owning these elevators were paid $85,000,000 to handle only half the crop," Mr. Perley said.

PAID IN TWO YEARS

"If they handled the whole crop, the cost of the whole elevator system would be paid in two years."

A board of livestock commissioners should be established and there should be government control of marketing and processing.

"Certainly I would control the Canadian packers," he continued. "I would control the industry in such a way that the results would be beneficial."

Maj. Lapointe said he had little sympathy for those all across Canada, regardless of party, who took advantage of every circumstance to further their political aims to the detriment of national unity.

Maj. Lapointe said the government should set up some kind of organization whose function it would be to study impartially the complaints of certain provinces looking to the removal of all causes of misunderstanding.

Mr. Castleden said that tax concessions to encourage research work and oil drilling were dependent on recommendations by ministers and approval by the governor-in-council.

This meant that in many cases

Captured Nazi Pennant

Driver E. M. Smith, Strathroy, Ont., grabbed this German general's personal flag when Canadians captured Nazi headquarters. The general was the former commander of the Italian town of Pontecorvo—but he doesn't live there any more—Canadians took the town after stiff fighting.

"monopolistic industry in Canada" was being assisted by the treasury in prolonging its life.

AGAINST CONCESSIONS

Special concessions should not be granted to major firms who were well able to look after themselves.

Canadian people should not be taxed to assist industry which only had a selfish interest in development.

Mr. Castleden said the economy of Canada could be arranged so there would be no poverty.

Many of the 32,000 women now in the forces would seek employment after the war and many of them could be employed as social workers under a federal program to aid the nation.

The people could be encouraged to study and engage in the arts, such as music, in their leisure hours.

"The bagpipes?" asked Tom Reid (L—New Westminster), an enthusiastic piper.

"I said music," replied Mr. Castleden.

"You wouldn't know the difference between what was music and what was not," said Mr. Reid.

Speaker J. A. Glen said interruptions of Mr. Castleden's speech must end.

MEMBER NAMED

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, said a member (Liguori Lacombe, C.N.—Laval-Two Mountains) had been named on Tuesday evening because he interrupted another member's speech.

"I am not to be associated with the member who was named the other evening," said Mr. Reid. "I am not in the same condition he was in; I am in a better condition."

Mr. Castleden said the budget was "reactionary" and "may be the last reactionary budget in this house."

SAYS TAX EXEMPTION
FOR FARMERS UNSOUND

OTTAWA, July 7.—(CP)—While farmers as individuals might welcome a general exemption of farmers from income tax it would not be sound, Bruce McNevin (L—Victoria, Ont.), a farmer himself and a former president of the United Farmers of Ontario, said in the House of Commons last night.

He was criticizing an argument advanced earlier in the budget debate by a western farmer, E. E. Perley (PC—Qu'Appelle) to the effect all farmers should be relieved of income tax.

"That would sound well on an election platform but it would not be a sound provision in the budget," said Mr. McNevin.

It would result in thousands of people who had "made their pile" moving out to farms to obtain tax exemption.

PRICES CONTROLLED

G. M. Weir (L—Macdonald) said that in the United States a housewife said the cost of running her home had risen from $20 to $25 a week, and her son's haircut cost $1. In contrast Canada had the benefit of effective price control.

"Socialists" had never recommended anything as sweeping as the Canadian income tax with its equalizing effects. It was "a great social experiment."

Taxation authorities should give more study to the application of income tax of farmers. The tax should be applied on farmers on a five-year income basis.

GROSSLY UNFAIR

It was "grossly unfair" that a farmer who sold out had the proceeds of his sale regarded as income. It was "unfortunate" there had been no settlement of the question of the income tax applying to co-operatives.

"The whole program of this government from the beginning has been designed to meet both the war and the post-war situation," said Mr. Weir.

Rural Canada needed repairs. It needed buildings. It needed literally trainloads of paint. It needed hydro. If its needs were to be met a vast volume of employment would be provided.

To make these improvements possible farmers would require capital and they would need it at low rate interest.

London Again
Takes Cover
From Robots

By FRANK LOWE

LONDON, July 7.—(CP)—Citizens of London are taking shelter from the menace of Germany's new flying-bomb weapon, the indiscriminately aimed projectile which has caused more than 10,000 casualties in the world's biggest city during the last three weeks.

The scramble for the safety of underground resting places in London's deep tubes and in the basements of modern buildings recalled the days of the heavy 1940-41 enemy blitz bombing of the capital.

London was officially disclosed yesterday by Prime Minister Churchill as the principal target of the buzz bombs.

NO EMPTY BUNKS

There are no empty bunks and there is little vacant floor space in London's tube stations, which had not been so used—other than by a few timorous souls—since Britain stood off the German bomber armadas which hammered London and other big cities during the nine months from September, 1940, through May, 1941.

New gashes in London's scarred face are a common sight in various sections. They have been appearing since the German attack with this new terror weapon began. Everyone living in London has heard the intermittent buzz of the flying bomb's engine, followed by the crump of its explosion.

Since Monday school children have been evacuated from London under a voluntary arrangement. Plans also have been put into operation under which mothers and young children may leave the capital.

SHELTERS OPENED

Deep shelters which have been prepared in London during the last three years—as a precaution in the event of a renewed air blitz—are being opened. They include dormitories with tiers of bunks, restaurants, sick bays and modern sanitation.

Train Carrying Troops Wrecked

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 7.—(AP)—A Louisville and Nashville railroad train, reportedly carrying troops, cracked up last night seven miles south of Helico, Tenn., in the Clear Fork river gorge, killing an undetermined number of persons, the Knoxville Journal reported last night. The L. and N. office here substantiated reports from the wreck scene and said all possible was being done to rescue persons trapped. Track crews were being rushed to the scene.

Crowd Soon in Mad Panic
As Fire Swept Circus Tent

Thomas F. Murphy, an editorial writer on the Hartford Courant's staff, was attending the circus with his five-year-old son when the fire broke out. Here's his eye-witness story.—EDITOR.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 7.—(AP)—The Wallendas, aerial artists, had just climbed up the rope ladder to their perch above when behind me I heard a woman gasp—"look—fire." There, near the main entrance to the tent, a tiny tongue of flame crept up the side wall.

Almost automatically people rose to their feet. Several men shouted "take it easy. Take it easy. Walk out quietly."

The crowd seemed to subside for an instant, but then, with almost unbelievable speed, the tiny flame spread into a devouring curtain of fire that rushed toward the top. All semblance of order was gone now. Women screamed, children cried. I saw one woman in the top row take her flaxen haired little girl, in one arm, grab a rope in the other and slide to the ground. Her arm was raw and red. But there was little time now for observation.

BARRIER OF STEEL

Preceding the Wallenda act, the main cages had been filled with lions, tigers and leopards. Running from the animal cages in back to the exhibition cages, were two steel runways three feet high. These were still in place. As the crowd surged forward they had to climb over this steel barrier.

I saw one woman faint to make it, slide back and slump to the ground. A man tried to fend the crowd back from her, but the pressure was too great.

I was slammed against the steel barrier and my knee caught momentarily between the bars. Then taking my five-year-old son in my hands I tossed him over the barrier to the ground beyond. The flames at this point were nearly overhead and the heat was becoming unbearable.

SAW MAD STRUGGLE

I looked back over my shoulder as I left the tent and saw people still struggling madly to get over the barrier. Outside children were running around crying. Men and women had the vacant look of shock. Some were just sitting on the grass staring into space.

I would say that the tent material must have been impregnated with oil in order to make it waterproof because I have never in my life seen fire spread as rapidly as this one did. I would say that it was less than 45 seconds from the time the first sign of fire appeared until the top of the tent had been consumed.

I saw one woman standing moaning and saying, "My four children. My four children. Where are they?" Then she spied a six-year-old coming to her, crying and she ran and threw her arms around him. Then another, then another. Finally she had all four, ages 6, 7, 8 and 10. They were all crying and embracing each other. The woman was shouting "Thank God, thank God." There were others who were not so fortunate.

Three Will Stand
Trial For Murder

WINNIPEG, July 7.—(CP)—Arthur Evans, 37, former Toronto policeman, Frank Shura, 32, and William Dacko, 25, both of Winnipeg, yesterday were committed for trial on a charge of murder in connection with the death of S. W. Caughey, 50, killed in an attempted holdup at the north end branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce here.

A fourth man, Leonard L. Peterson, 22, of Calgary, was committed for trial on a charge of manslaughter.

Caughey was killed by the blast from a shotgun during a scuffle with the bandits in the bank.

The men were committed for trial by Magistrate A. C. Campbell in city police court after a three-day preliminary hearing during which 31 witnesses testified.

WINNIPEG, July 7.—(CP)—Mrs. Nick Meyer, whose husband is serving with the Canadian army overseas, said yesterday she and her six children, aged six to 12 years, spent Wednesday night in a railway depot waiting room after being evicted from their rooms in North Winnipeg. She said she had been to the local housing commission, a nearby beach and several tourist camps in a vain effort to find accommodation.

Plan to Beautify

The Hon. James A. MacKinnon, home from Ottawa on a holiday, brings the good news that the Canadian National Railways may be prepared to negotiate with the city in the late autumn, over the beautification of the area adjacent to the Macdonald Hotel.

Nothing definite is promised. But Mr. MacKinnon says that the president of the railway is interested in the project and will be in Edmonton personally in a few months to discuss the matter.

Now whether the city undertakes, this beautification plan in conjunction with the C.N.R. or alone, it seems to be certain that this area, sooner or later, will be made into a park. Such a proposal is widely favored throughout the city. No one at all is actively opposed to it, provided it does not interfere with what are regarded as more urgent projects.

In the face of this unanimity of opinion, there is no reason why the city should not proceed with some positive steps at once. There would be objections to the use of manpower in this undertaking while manpower is still a serious factor in the housing situation.

But the use of manpower is not involved in the acquisition of the property. And there is absolutely no argument against the city acquiring it immediately.

Indeed there is good reason why it should be acquired immediately because never again will it be lower in price than at present nor, probably, will the city be in a better financial position to purchase it.

All this preliminary work can be done without delay.

Motorists Warned

The traffic department of the city police has issued an urgent warning to Edmonton motorists with regard to careful driving particularly where children may be at play.

The ordinary instincts of humanity should preclude the need for such a warning. But even the most humane person can become careless at the wheel of a car.

What every driver should strive to keep in mind is that there is nothing more poignantly tragic than the violent death of a little child—unless it be an accident that will seriously cripple that child.

The human mind shudders with horror at the idea of needless pain being inflicted upon the young, at the thought of a tender life, barely begun, being rudely cut off for no other reason than that some motorist was careless or in a hurry.

What errand is there that can bear even a fraction of the importance of a child's life?

The public knows these things and feels them. All the traffic department asks is that everybody remember them.

One Example

It will surprise most Canadians to learn from the report of the War Expenditures Committee of the House of Commons that in pre-war years Canadian factories produced only 35 per cent of the volume of farm machinery used in the Dominion. Canadian manufacturers have in the past sold farm implements from Siberia to Egypt, but only 35 per cent of the machines actually used in Canada.

Obviously here is one instance of an opportunity to employ perhaps two or three times as much Canadian labor as in the past in meeting a home demand alone—to say nothing of export possibilities caused by the war or opened up by shifts of policy due to wartime experiences. A like opportunity no doubt exists to expand industrial production along a good many other lines. Where such possibilities exist, the enormous extension of industrial productive capacity made during the war years will enable them to be turned to account. Given trade policies based on a realistic regard for world conditions, this war-developed industrial set-up will go a long way to provide jobs and wages when peace returns.

The "Doodlebugs"

British Prime Minister Winston Churchill has made what appears to be a fair and dispassionate statement about the flying bombs which Germany has released over England.

The "doodlebugs," as English humor dubs them, have been a serious menace, not to the war effort nor to British morale, but to the civilian population. More people have been killed by these contraptions than were killed in the first fifteen days of the battle of Normandy.

This is undoubtedly a serious situation, and the Prime Minister does well to admit the gravity of it. But there is this to be considered:

The flying bomb is a product, not of German genius but of German fighting valor, but entirely of German science. And experience has shown that, in the matter of scientific invention, Allied science can outstrip German ingenuity every time.

The Nazis came into this war with an immense advantage in tank and airplane construction, with many unusual magnetic mine devices and with numerous other scientific weapons of offense and defense.

In every such case, the British have not only found ways to combat these weapons and devices but have discovered how to improve upon them for their own use.

British mastery of the "doodlebugs," then, is only a matter of time. It is a hazard that is bound to be overcome by skill and patience.

Moreover, it has been pointed out that the new device is not significant of German triumph, but of German weakness. It is no more than an admission of a serious shortage of manpower.

Hitler Won't Surrender

"We will never capitulate," shouts Hitler, "however great the difficulties that face us."

This ostensibly bold and defiant declaration might appear to be an indication of Hitler's courage. Actually it is an indication of his fear.

It might appear to be an expression of his confidence. Actually it is an expression of his despair.

For a fight to the finish is his only possible hope—not of victory, but of saving his skin. The prospect of capitulation is a nightmare to him because capitulation means the hangman's noose or a madman's cell.

So he rants about the impossibility of surrender because surrender is what he fears above all else and what he suspects his military leaders are plotting. This declaration is, indeed, the most significant indication of his personal weakness.

Certainly Hitler himself won't surrender. Nobody would accept it.

Most Canadians will be surprised to learn from the Bureau of Statistics that we pulled through last winter with only a quarter of the usual amount of canned peaches, a fifth the amount of canned beans, little more than half the usual amount of canned tomatoes, and less than two-thirds the usual supply of canned peas. These standard household commodities were known to be scarce, but they would have been much more missed if we had known how scarce they really were. Such is human nature.

Count the day lost when Allied forces in the Southwest Pacific do not bomb another Jap-held island which the world never before heard of. Whatever their shortcomings the Japanese certainly knew their geography, and knew also how to scatter garrisons over a countless number of "pin points" in quick time.

Women Will Follow Invaders

Come After Liberating Armies With Services And Duties

By MARY ALICE QUAYNE

It is with pride that we learn that a picked army of women from 34 United Nations is being trained in London for one of the greatest war jobs women have ever tackled—healing millions of wounded hearts and bodies which are the cruel aftermath of war.

These trained women will move on to the Continent on the heels of the liberating armies and go to work. Their ministrations will be to fight every kind of want, from lack of food and shelter to need of human kindness.

A group of fourteen hundred already have finished a tough course based on England's war experience in feeding, clothing, housing, health, emergency relief, civil defence, employment education and rehabilitation. They have had practical training in emergency kitchens, cleaning stations, clothing depots, hospitals, clinics, clubs, nurseries and canteens.

The work they are preparing to do will be virtually as important to the history of civilization as that of the liberating armies.

Traditionally more secluded than their western sisters, the Chinese women are doing tougher war work than the women of this hemisphere.

Some are fighting in the army where several generals accepted them as volunteers. They wear the same clothes and draw the same pay as men—a private gets approximately $1 a month.

Some of these women, who range from teen-age girls to illiterate old peasant women, have seen some hot fighting, but the majority do non-combatant work such as nursing and stretcher-bearing.

A number of Chinese nurses are assigned to "hospitals on wheels" that can pack up and move from one camouflaged peasant hut to another as fighting progresses. They have to move quickly from one battle scene to another, and they must be able to work without sleep for hours on end.

These nurses are under the supervision of the Chinese Red Cross Medical Relief Corps.

Russian women surgeons have been serving with the guerrillas in the toughest fighting of the Russian campaign. They travel with the troops, setting up their hospitals in swamps or forests. Sometimes they work under very primitive conditions. They operate with penknives disinfected in the flames of a bonfire, and sew up wounds in the light of home-made candles. Their work has saved thousands of lives.

French women are also doing a dangerous job in caring for the wounded. About 20 of them are attached to French troops at the Italian front, serving as nurses.

On the streets of many British cities today, policewomen are becoming a commonplace. The force itself has become reconciled to the idea.

The police authorities, faced with the dilemma of decreasing manpower, are canvassing the ranks of the Auxiliary Transport Service and the Women's Auxiliary Air Force for likely recruits to fill the gaps in the ranks of the British "bobby."

The reason for this encroachment upon services already doing useful work is the fact that the need is urgent and partially-trained women can be more readily turned out of the police training schools. It is still a volunteer proposition and volunteers are asked if they intend to remain in the police when the war is over. Many say yes—but most of them object to the present ban on marriage for the policewomen.

Answer

GLASGOW HERALD.

In a section of a military hospital where special work is done, the lady in charge has been asking the lady in charge for months, as she finds the increasing work almost impossible to undertake.

This week two "brass-hats" inspected the place, and were delighted with the work being done. On leaving one said:

"I think you've a very excellent unit here, Miss—"

"I think you've chosen the right word, Sir James," she replied.

"Unit means one."

The reply was effective. She's getting an assistant.

Colonel Ralston has yet to report on what the intake of recruits has been this year and until we know of this we are in no position to judge the current position which the Conservative Party has undertaken to judge without the facts.

We know that Colonel Ralston was satisfied early in the year and not one man in Parliament, in any party will question Colonel Ralston's determination to maintain the army. Not for a moment would he stay in the government if he were unable to do it. If he is still satisfied—and we shall know that soon—Parliament and the Canadian people will be satisfied that the army is being maintained, however they may feel about the method used to do it.

The Conservative Party tells us that 70,000 zombies are lying about uselessly in Canada and that, by the signing of an order-in-council the government could add 70,000 fine young soldiers to the overseas army. This, of course, is not true.

In the first place, the drafted men are performing defence duties. They are guarding ports, power plants, industries. If they are withdrawn from these duties the government must replace them by men from the active army. Mr. Bracken argues that these men are uselessly employed. He would therefore take the responsibility of leaving our coasts completely unprotected, even though the United States is protecting its coasts and even though joint defence of this continent is arranged in partnership between Canada and the United States under a joint defence agreement.

According to Colonel Ralston, 41 per cent of the drafted men are on defence duty in Canada, Labrador, Newfoundland and the Caribbean. (At the time of his statement some were in the Aleutians.) Fifteen per cent are used on essential jobs in military establishments, as cooks, in offices and other duties which someone must perform; 20 per cent are still in training; 8 per cent are in depot for re-selection; 7 per cent are on leave to do farm work, lumbering, fishing, etc.

It is therefore clear that the order-in-council proposed by the Conservatives would not add any large number of men to the overseas army, nothing like the figure of 70,000 commonly suggested, any more than conscription added significantly to the army of the last war and resulted chiefly in the schism of the nation.

There are powerful arguments for conscription as a matter of justice, but they are advanced rather late in the day now. The Conservative Party is unable to advance them, having accepted the government's policy and opposed conscription in the past. It is compelled now to rely on the argument that the army is not being maintained, which is untrue, and on the argument, also untrue, that overseas conscription of itself would produce a vast new flow of recruits.

If we are to have conscription with all it involves in damage to the structure of the nation, let us have it on the basis of justice and principle, but not the basis of erroneous figures—and not, certainly on the basis of a desperate Conservative manoeuvre to save the party from destruction.

The national flag, according to the national flag code, is blue, white and red, not red, white and blue.

Colonel Ralston added: "If we

Vice-Presidential Contest Promises Some Lively Sessions

CHICAGO—Now that the last Republican delegate has been dug out of the Stevens hotel and sent on his way home, the stage is being set for the Democratic convention to be held here beginning July 19.

This second "draft" promises in many ways to be more stereotyped than the one which produced Governor Dewey out of a slightly transparent hat. There is a strong possibility, as has previously been suggested in this column, that President Roosevelt will declare his willingness to submit to the "draft" of a large majority of the delegates already pledged to the fourth term before the Democrats assemble in Chicago.

While the ratification of Roosevelt for first place on the ticket will be a formality, contentious Democrats promise to produce fireworks that will make the next big political rally far from the dull affair just ended. Professional trouble-makers will be on hand to see to it that all is not harmony as on the surface at least it was with the Republicans.

Take the little matter of the vice-presidential nomination, for example. Here the Democrats are likely to run into a major quarrel.

Democrat Convention Prospects

If he follows the schedule drawn up for him before he left, Vice-President Wallace will return to this country from his Far Eastern trip on July 11 or 12. His port of entry, according to the schedule, is to be Seattle.

There, not long after his arrival, he plans to give a major address, on a nationwide radio hook-up, dealing with his tour. In that talk he will stress the great future of the States on the Pacific slope, particularly in the development of vast new trade, by air and by sea, with a revitalized China and with the new industrialized Siberia that Wallace has been allowed to see as a guest of the Soviet Union.

This will be Wallace's dramatic bid for renomination as vice-president. It is possible, too, that he may have one or more diplomatic triumphs to announce at the same time.

The opposition to the shy, gangling Iowa within his own party is of course, tremendous. Conservative Democrats in the south look on him as the epitome of all that is wrong and radical. Conceivably they might call off their carefully staged southern "revolt" if Wallace were thrown to the wolves.

New Dealers such as Attorney General Francis Biddle and his good friend "Tommy the Cork" Corcoran also are opposed to Wallace. They are saying that, if anything happened to the President and Wallace were to succeed him, the same thing would happen as happened to Abraham Lincoln's big shoes. Congress would destroy him as it destroyed poor Andrew Johnson. Regarding themselves as practical cal politicians, these New Dealers reflect the views of the party bosses such as Hague of New Jersey and Flynn of the Bronx. They swallowed Wallace in 1940, but this time it will have to be a case of forcible feeding if the President insists.

Robert Hannegan, Democratic national chairman by Roosevelt's wish, is reported to have told the President that it would be next to impossible to get enough votes to put Wallace over even if the White House were publicly to express a preference. A regular Democrat himself, Hannegan is said to share the bosses' feeling against Wallace, the intellectual and the man of vision.

On the other hand, the vice-president has the support of the C.I.O. and liberal elements in the party, as well as some appeal to independent voters with liberal tendencies. He has made a good showing in the public opinion polls.

Besides the vice-presidential issue there is the color question. The Texas delegation, as carefully engineered by shrewd Houston lawyers, is coming to Chicago to make trouble on this and other problems. A rival rump delegation, which will probably get the official okay of the credentials committee, is also coming to Chicago.

All in all, the meeting of the Democrats should produce more sensational headlines than came out of the Republican convention. That is the hope of those who intend to block the fourth term even if it should mean disruption of the Democratic party or even, for that matter, nullification of this country's position in the world.

Conservative Policy in Quebec

By GRANT DEXTER

Toronto Saturday Night observes that the willingness of the Conservative party to team up with the extreme anti-British nationalists of Quebec—the Sevignys, Blondins, Nantels, Lavergnes and the rest—is not cynical. The political tradition of Canada, said Saturday Night, "makes it imperative that even a Conservative prime minister should have somebody—two or three somebodies—from French Quebec in his cabinet."

Saturday Night goes on to say:

"There is not the slightest doubt that the best interests both of French Canada and of Canada as a whole have been more grievously harmed by the entry of men such as these into cabinets with whose policies they knew they could not agree than by any other single factor in our political life."

The record shows that the traditional strategy of the Conservative party calls for an anti-Quebec campaign in the English-speaking provinces while, in Quebec, a secret deal is made with the Nationalist opponents of the Liberal party.

The aim is to catch the Liberals in two ways.

First: Outside of Quebec, the Conservative party is free to proclaim policies which are anathema to Quebec. This is of no consequence to the Conservative party because, since 1911, the party has rarely put up candidates in Quebec except in the non-French seats.

Once relieved of the necessity of appealing to Quebec electors, the Conservatives can assail the Liberal party elsewhere for being the creature of French Canada. This, so to speak, puts the Liberals under the barrel outside of Quebec.

Second: By not operating in Quebec in its own right, the Conservative party is able secretly to back the extreme anti-British Nationalists who contest the Quebec constituencies against the Liberals.

Whose chief appeal is that the Liberal party is the Imperialist party, the tool of the English-speaking majority and therefore the supreme betrayer of French Canada.

To the extent that the Nationalists win in Quebec, the Liberal strength in Parliament is reduced.

Moreover, the Conservatives, having all along an understanding with these Nationalists, can rely on them in a pinch to make up a clear majority in the House of Commons and thus obtain office.

This is, broadly, an exact statement of what happened in 1911 and 1930, the last two occasions when Conservative ministries were formed. In 1911, Sir Robert Borden carried 133 seats of which 27 were Quebec supporters of Mr. Bourassa.

In return for their support, the Borden government and succeeding Conservative ministries rewarded them handsomely.

In 1930, Mr. Bennett carried 136 seats of which 24 were in Quebec and again the Nationalists like Armand Lavergne were generously rewarded for support in the House of Commons.

In trying to refute the record, the Conservative press, by and large, has missed the point. It seems to be regarded as a good and sufficient answer to repeat the charges against the Liberal party and re-state the position of the Conservatives on such issues as over-all conscription.

The Globe and Mail, which is developing a strong anti-Quebec campaign, has been outstanding in its failure to grasp the essentials of the case against the Conservative party. Writing on the editorial page of the Globe, Mr. F. D. L. Smith has repeated his statements that Laurier, Lapointe, Gouin, Taschereau, Dandurand as well as contemporary Quebec Liberals were and are Nationalists. He fails to see that the very fact that those he names were Liberals automatically frees the Liberal party from the charge of hypocrisy.

These Quebec Liberals spoke as such and the Liberal party at large—in every part of Canada—has and must continue to bear a measure of responsibility for their Nationalist activities. Likewise, the Quebec Liberals, being Liberals, must accept responsibility for the views expressed by their English-speaking colleagues elsewhere in Canada. The Liberal party, in other words, operates as such in every constituency in the country and for that reason is exposed to the kind of attack now being engineered by the Conservative party.

It is worth noting that the youngest political party in Canada—the C.C.F.—is following the Liberal and not the Conservative example and is organizing under its own banner in Quebec. It, too, aims to become a truly national party.

If the Conservative Party would function in a national rather than in a sectional way, the present Conservative propaganda would be ineffective. In that event, the Conservatives, like the Liberals, would reflect the views of all Canadians.

Or, again, if the Conservatives would cut themselves off from Quebec, stop dealing secretly with a Quebec element which is more nationalistic than any other in that province, their position would be understandable.

The Conservatives, however, are too realistic to do this. They know, none better, that no party in Canada can hope to win an outright parliamentary majority without support from Quebec. This has been done only once in our history—in 1917. It was almost true of the 1935 and 1940 elections, but not quite. In the present House of Commons, Mr. King holds about 120 seats outside of Quebec—just three or four short of a bare majority.

Thus when Mr. Bracken is greeted in Quebec by the supporters of Maurice Duplessis, who will seek support in the current provincial election on the ground that Mr. Godbout has sold out to the Liberals at Ottawa and through Ottawa, has delivered the province to the English-speaking majority—when this happens it becomes reasonably clear that the traditional Conservative strategy is again in operation. Moreover, there is not the slightest evidence, to date, of Conservative candidates in the sixty French Canadian ridings of Quebec.

The Quebec end of the Conservative strategy will develop steadily now that the provincial campaign is underway. The standard bearer, in fact if not officially, will be Mr. Duplessis and the prospective victims will be Liberal members.

In the English-speaking provinces, the Conservatives will doubtless push forward vigorously with charges that the Liberal party is in the custody of its followers from Quebec.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

WHEN Henry Martell tees off at Country Club along with Bill Broadfoot of Mayfair and Vern Mohs of Municipal at 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, he'll be shooting for his tenth consecutive city golf championship.

The Highlands ace won his first city title in 1935 and has never missed since. Last year his opponent in the final was Glenn Gray, of Mayfair, now in the R.C.A.F., and in 1942, he defeated Clarence Richards, also of Mayfair and who is again a competitor, in the final round.

But the Martell monopoly hasn't kept the field down, for up to Friday night, 55 of Edmonton's top shot-makers had signified their intention of competing according to Reg (Pep) Moon's records. At the corresponding time in 1943, the total stood at 56, but 61 actually teed off in the qualifying round, and it is highly probable the number will be approximately the same, when the entry list is finally closed this year.

And while on the Martell subject—it is noted that brothers Burns and Emil are back in the title chase once more. A year ago the Martell family claimed three of the four semi-final berths, Burns eventually being eliminated by Glenn Gray, while Emil was ousted by Henry in the other bracket.

JOHN DUCY was guest umpire at Buffalo Stadium in Calgary last week-end, under invitation from the Foothills Baseball League. In his column in Thursday's Alberta, under the caption, "Umpire Ducey made hit with fans," Harry Scott had the following to say:

"When Umpire John Ducey called the balls and strikes during the recent Army-Ogden ball game at Buffalo Stadium, it was the first time that Calgaryans had the privilege of seeing him in action for 12 years. At that time he worked a few games at Mewata Park.

"It was a rare treat for local baseball enthusiasts to see the Edmonton arbiter do his stuff.

Reds Make Clean Sweep Of 4 Games

CINCINNATI, July 7.—(AP)—Bucky Walters breezed to his sixth straight National League win and the 14th of the year last night as the Cincinnati Reds celebrated Ray Mueller night with a 10-4 trouncing of the Brooklyn Dodgers for a clean sweep of the four-game series.

A seven-run inning hung on Ralph Branca and Clyde King, Dodger pitchers, gave the Reds the game after they had scored a single run in the first.

Mueller caught his 134th consecutive game, breaking a record set in 1909 by George Gibson of Pittsburgh.

ST. LOUIS, July 7.—(AP)—After dropping three in a row to St. Louis Cardinals, New York Giants did an about face and handed the National League champions their worst drubbing of the season, winning the final game of the four-game series, 10-1 Thursday.

Bill Voiselle stopped the flying Red Birds with eight hits and lost his shutout in the sixth when a single by Ray Sanders, a double by Stan Musial and an outfield fly by Ken O'Dea scored the Cards' lone run. It was Voiselle's 11th victory of the year.

The Cubs kayoed Al Javery, one of the National League's all-star hurlers, and continued against three other pitchers for 15 hits.

Twilight Tear Sets Track Mark In Copping $10,000 Handicap

Fair-Haired Boy

Not the least reason why the St. Louis Cardinals are drawing away is third baseman Whitey Kurowski, swatting long ball for an average comfortably above .300 and among leaders in runs-batted-in.

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

CHICAGO, July 7.—(AP)—Twilight Tear, queen of the United States turf, racked up her ninth straight triumph Thursday in winning the $10,000 added Arlington Park Skokie Handicap in record-breaking time at Washington Park.

Apparently not extended, the bay three-year-old daughter of Bull Lea-Lady Lark, sped across the finish line in 1:22 3/5 for seven furlongs. She knocked three-fifths of a second off the track record that had stood since 1937 and came within three-fifths of the world's record set by Clang at Arlington Park in 1937. She was ridden by a confident ride by jockey Buddy Hays.

Sirde, owned by Allen Drumheller of Walla Walla, Wash., was second, a length and a half back, and the Broilite Farm's Challenge Me was third. Neither seriously challenged the Calumet Farms Flying Miss, which never has been out of the money.

Pensive, the Kentucky Derby-Preakness winner and Twilight Tear's running mate yesterday, finished fifth, not by a factor at any time. He was ridden by jockey F. A. Smith. Occupying John Marsch's juvenile champ of 1943, finished fourth.

The net value to the winner yesterday was $8,250, which ran Twilight Tear's two year winning total to $99,100.

Twilight Tear was $2.60 and $2.20 while Sirde was $2.40 to place. There was no show betting.

Thrilled Paul

By PAUL DERRINGER
Cub's Pitcher

ST. LOUIS reduced Cincinnati's lead to two-and-a-half games. The last of a four-game series at Crosley Field, Sept. 28, 1939, was the Cardinals' final chance. If the Red Birds lost, they couldn't win the flag regardless of what they did.

I had pitched with only two days' rest through September. I must have been tired, for when I threw the first ball to leadoff man Jimmy Brown I knew I didn't have a thing.

It was one of those games that had everything in it . . . errors, poor base-running, one jam after another. The Cards made 14 hits to the Reds' eight, but we led, 5-3, as they went to bat in the ninth.

FANS MIZE AND MEDWICK

With Johnny Mize and Joe Medwick coming up, Bill Werber walked over to me and said: "All right now, Paul, throw a few. You haven't cut loose all day. Pour it in there as fast as you can and let's get in the clubhouse."

I don't know how fast they were, but I never threw harder and I won't ever again. Mize and Medwick went down on six pitches. Only one was called a strike, so they all had enough of the plate to make them swing. I felt like sitting down and not moving for hours.

It's great to pitch in a World Series, but you have to get in one first, and there's no thrill like winning a pennant, especially when it has been a long time between them. This was Cincinnati's first in 20 years.

Lou Boudreau Likes Red Sox In American Pennant Race

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP)—Skipper Lou Boudreau of the Cleveland Indians has his eye on the Boston Red Sox in the American League pennant race although Thursday he joined the chorus of managers who predict the present wide-open chase will continue all season.

Manager Sewell Tells Story of Boone Brothers

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK, July 7.—The Browns looked like the Perth Amboy fireman in snapping the six-game streak of Bob Muncie, and Luke Sewell removed his ace from the firing line.

Someone asked Manager Sewell why visiting clubs, especially the Browns and Indians, persist on putting on an amateur hour or two when they visit Yankee Stadium.

"Maybe it's the big stands," ventured the old backstop. "Perhaps in their eagerness to shock the Yankees they try too hard," suggested Coach Freddie Hoffman. "Or choke up," cut in Sam Benjamin, violent Cleveland fan.

Whatever it is the Yankee spell in The Bronx holds, even though the club is a couple of fathoms below par.

It had been a most unpleasant afternoon for the Browns, however, and Sewell preferred to talk of other things.

"Everytime I am pulling for a base hit I think of the Boone brothers," he said. "There were three of them—Wylie, Dan and Ike—on the Samantha farm, not far from where I was raised in Alabama.

415 FAILED TO WIN

"They kicked around the minors for years, and each spring would put up $25 apiece, the pool to go to the batting leader. An average of 415 failed to win for Dan one fall, and Ike returned home with 330 knowing he didn't have any more chance than the Phillies. Wylie took it all with 430."

Sewell was catching for Cleveland when the Red Sox gave him a whirl. George Uhle was walking Lou Gehrig to strike out Babe Ruth with an overhand curve in those days.

Knowing Sewell had played with Boone, Uhle asked how he should pitch to him. What was his weakness? "He has none," answered Sewell. "That being the case," replied the confident Uhle, "I'll give him the curve."

Boone hit the first ball pitched down the right field foul line like a bullet. The next time up Uhle told his battery mate that he would show Boone the curve, then give him the hard one. Uhle had a sneaky fast ball, but Boone smacked it on a line barely out of the reach of the jumping third baseman and up against the left field wall of Fenway Park.

"He likes the curve and fast ball," reasoned Uhle the next trip, "so it's the change of pace." Up it came as big as a house.

Smack! Boone knocked the button off Uhle's cap.

KIRK REAL HITTER

Talk of hitters who could do nothing else always gets baseball people around to Jay Kirk, who did a figure eight with the bat in winding up with the pitcher and hit the ball from town to town.

Sewell recalls the storied Louisville first baseman beating a home run with the bat in one hand and a young pitcher named Werber threatening to knock him down the next time he came up.

There came the pitch directly at Kirk's head, but Jay was winding up, too, and the bat came out of nowhere to hit the ball in front of his face—over the fence.

"And here I am trying to buy a base hit," signed Luke Sewell.

Paid $10,200 for Pennant Winners

NEW YORK, July 7.—Larry Sutton, the scout who died recently at 85, paid all of $10,200 for nine athletes who helped bring Brooklyn its 1916 pennant. Pitcher Jeff Pfeffer was obtained for $2,500, southpaw Sherrod Smith for $600, first baseman Jake Daubert and second baseman George Cutshaw cost $1,000 each. Ollie O'Mara, whose career as an outstanding shortstop was checked by a broken leg, came at $1,200. Zack Wheat, $1,200; Casey Stengel, $300; and Hy Myers, $900, formed the outfield. Gus Getz, whose hit clinched the flag, was landed for $1,500. Imagine picking up such a group at such little expense today.

NEW YORK, July 7.—Those "Durability Twins" of the major leagues, Ray Mueller of the Reds and Frankie Hayes of the Athletics probably will be doing business at the same old stand—behind home plate—when the teams square off for the annual all-star sociable at Pittsburgh next Tuesday night, but if they obeyed their creaking bones they more than likely would take the night off.

The all-star contest usually affords the majority of the major leagues a three day vacation and how those two knights of the iron could use it. Neither one of them has missed a game this season and for catchers that constitutes a baseball miracle.

Moreover, Mueller went through nearly half of last season handling every game for every Red pitcher and yesterday he set a modern National League mark for 23 years standing, when he caught his 134th straight contest over the two year span.

PLAYED IN 511 GAMES

THIS business of "overtime" in baseball's most gruelling job is nothing new to these specialists in a spot where it's a soft day if you don't get some hard knocks. Mueller caught in 141 of Cincinnati's 154 games last year and as a minor league with Sacramento in the Pacific Coast League in 1942 worked in 166 games.

The 32 year old veteran who was born in the soft coal country of Southern Kansas has been in 511 major league games in six and a half seasons and he wasn't even a regular when he started with the Boston Braves in 1935. He also had seen service with the Pittsburgh Pirates who moved him into the St. Louis Cardinal chain in 1940 where he remained until Cincinnati acquired him in 1942.

baseball's trade routes have cast Frankie Hayes with the second division Athletics whereas if manager Luke Sewell of the St. Louis Browns hadn't chosen to dispose of two of the top catchers in the major leagues at once, he would be riding with a potential pennant winner.

TWO ALL-STAR CATCHERS

FOR a season and a half Hayes had life easy in St. Louis shirring the backstopping duties with Rick Ferrell, a pretty unwell veteran himself. Then Sewell, who must have had a reason, decided to dispose of both of them, sending Ferrell to Washington and Hayes to Philadelphia.

The name, "Hayes of the As," graced Philadelphia box scores from 1933 to 1942. What Sewell and his St. Louis travelling Brownies might have been able to do with either Hayes or Ferrell in his lineup this season is another story, both are in the all-star game, indicating that the managers rank them as "tops" in their profession.

Tex Hughson Takes 13th As Boston Trims Tigers

BOSTON, July 7.—(AP)—Boston Red Sox put on their most powerful offensive of the American League season Thursday to defeat Detroit Tigers, 13-3, as Tex Hughson posted his 13th victory of the year.

The sockers blasted four rival hurlers for 20 hits and every one of them connected safely at least once. Bob Johnson led the attack with a single, double, triple and homer and he was so foot weary after completing his cycle in the seventh inning that he turned over his outfield berth to Tommy McBride.

While driving in five of the Boston runs, Bobby Doerr collected a triple, double and a pair of singles. Detroit lost 0-13. Boston 13-3. Gentry, Mooty (3), Beck (5) and Richards, Unser (5); Hughson and Wagner.

YANKEES WIN TWO OF FOUR
NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP)—With Hank Borowy hurling a four-hit shut-out, New York Yankees, Thursday gained an even split in their four-game American League series with Cleveland by defeating the Indians 4-0.

It was Borowy's second shutout of the season and his 11th victory. He had allowed but two infield hits but the Indians added two safeties in the last frame.

PHILADELPHIA, July 7.—(AP)—Bob Munroe tacked up his eighth American League pitching victory against four defeats for the season as he hurled St. Louis Browns to a 2-0 shutout over Philadelphia Athletics in the final game of their series here Thursday.

Munroe, who allowed only four hits, was given a head start by Vern Stephens, three-run homer in the first inning.

The Athletics only extra base blow was Bill McChes's double that opened the home half of the eighth.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(AP)—Washington, behind the four-hit pitching of Moe Lyle, shut out the Chicago White Sox here last night 5-0. The Senators got to Orval Grove in the first inning for a couple of runs.

Singles by Joe Kuel and Jake Powell, a sacrifice by Stan Spence and a long fly by Roberto Ortiz gave the Senators another run in the third. The Senators last run came in the eighth when Ortiz doubled off the left field wall and scored on Rick Ferrell's single.

Big Help to Browns

Mark Christman Considered A.L.'s Most Improved Player

By SAM DAVIS

NEW YORK, July 7.—Ossie Bluege of the Washington club and other trained baseball men consider Mark Christman the most improved ball player in the American League. Mark Joseph Christman, 29, brother of that famous Missouri pigskin tosser, Paul, made the Browns, hot in quest of St. Louis' first American League pennant.

"If I had put him at third base earlier, things might have been different last season," admits Luke Sewell, the Browns' boss. He played every infield position for the Browns last year, who for several years crowded or topped 100 runs-batted-in.

It was not until Cliff was traded to the Senators in mid-August that Christman landed on third base to stay.

NEW GLOVE HOLDS SHAPE
Modest Mark attributes his rise to steady employment and to the fact that he became a pull hitter to obtain power.

He sat down one day this spring and took stock of his weak hitting, decided to change. He picked up a 34-ounce Vern Stephens model bat, and now is batting around .300, hitting timely and for distance.

Unlike other players, Christman prefers a new glove because it holds its shape better.

Christman's biggest baseball thrill came recently when he rapped a grand slam home run against Jesse Flores of the Athletics, the second one of his career. He connected similarly for Henderson, Tex., of the West Dixie League in 1935, his second year out.

The toughest pitcher for him to hit against is Tex Hughson of the Red Sox.

CANADIAN SPORTSHOTS

By SYD THOMAS

TORONTO, July 7.—(CP)—There was a little double-dealing at a softball game in Windsor, Ont., the other day but the customers still don't know whether to believe it.

Dom and Ben Papineau, identical twins in all except their batting averages, decided their slugging discrepancy must be due to the fact the calibre of their team-mates differed. Dom plays with a second-place team, while Ben's outfit is in the cellar.

So the two 18-year-olds switched uniforms and teams for one game, with highly satisfactory results: for Ben at least. The erstwhile weak brother of the act banged three singles while his slugging identical didn't hit safely all night.

The boys told all their managers after the game, but those worthies still can't credit it, especially after the way the brothers fell into their alter ego's batting roles.

Incidentally, Lacrosse is definitely in the doldrums in Owen Sound, Ont. A four-team league was formed three weeks ago, but enough players can't be obtained to get it going, so now it's being dropped to a three-team loop.

Swimmers across the country are getting their webbed feet in shape for the Canadian swim championships to be held in Vancouver July 15. Five entrants are expected from Quebec, eight each from Ontario and Manitoba, with four from Saskatchewan. What the other provinces will do is still indefinite.

Horses belonging to Mr. and Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark have won 70 per cent of the steeplechase and hurdle races run in New York.

Hint Germans May Abandon Base of Caen

warfare, divisions being packed in at a ratio of about one to three miles of front.

The weather was described as "extremely bad," ruling out air co-operation, but was improving somewhat later in the day.

While the left wing of Lt. Gen. Omar Bradley's American army was widening its bridgehead across the Vire river, other American forces to the northwest almost completely encircled the town of La Haye-Du Puits, narrowing to two and a half miles the gap between the prongs of an enveloping arc, and a headquarters spokesman said it is "now only a matter of time" until the town falls.

The new American offensive some six to eight miles above St. Lo was aimed squarely at the highway hub of St. Jean de Daye, some two miles west of the Vire. Front dispatches reported violent fighting at close quarters in the vicinity of the town.

GAIN ASCENDANCY
The U.S. forces closing in on La Haye Du Puits, hotly-contested transport centre in western Normandy, scored gains on all sides of the town except due south and appeared to have gained ascendancy over Nazi garrison which had driven out advanced American elements a number of times.

The British penetration of the Caen dock area, disclosed at supreme headquarters appeared to have been made from positions northeast of the key German defence bastion where British and Canadian troops were dug in across the Orne river a mile and a half from the town.

Observers emphasized that it still was too early to draw conclusions on the absence of the Germans withdrawing from the city in view of the squeeze being Caen waterfront, but one suggested it would be no surprise to see the Nazi withdrawing from the applied by the 2nd Army and the drumfire of shells being pumped into the fortress city from the south and southeast.

An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Normandy said Allied bombers knocked out of commission three bridges spanning the Orne river in Caen during the night, leaving the German garrison with only one single-pointon bridge and a railway bridge in the city.

KEYSTONE OF DEFENCE
Unofficial speculation at headquarters centred around the likelihood that if the Germans were driven out or pulled out of Caen, they probably would fall back to a line running roughly through Troarn and Falaise, seven miles east and 25 miles south-southeast of Caen.

The Germans have made Caen the keystone of their entire Normandy defence system, packing in at least seven crack panzer divisions and four infantry divisions plus other elements to oppose the British and Canadians. This great density of manpower, it was pointed out, far exceeds that massed in by the Wehrmacht in similar areas, even in Russia where the Germans in their attempt to hold Vitebsk committed only five divisions, all of them infantry.

The American troops that drove across the Vire River at last reports were engaging the Germans in the vicinity of St. Jean de Daye, two miles west of the Vire and seven miles southeast of Caen.

United Press Correspondent Henry T. Gorrell reported from the front at 9:30 a.m. (1:30 p.m. M.D.T.).

Initial progress was regarded as satisfactory, Gorrell said.

POWERFUL FORCES

Around the vital Caen sector, where the Germans massed powerful formations to block a British breakthrough on the road to Paris, United Kingdom troops still further enlarged the 2nd Army salient southwest of the fortress of Caen and Canadian troops smashed two more heavy German counter-attacks at Carpiquet with deadly artillery fire. Some German tanks were knocked out.

The Canadians were established well to the west of Carpiquet village and although they gained some ground to the east and north of the village, which is solidly held, the Germans remained in control of the northern and eastern parts of the Carpiquet airfields.

A headquarters spokesman said that while there was little change in the front between Caumont and the Evrecy salient, Lt. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey's troops had edged forsolicitor. The campaign fund was opened on June 26, and an endeavor is being made to raise $50,000 for the families in the flooded areas who in most cases suffered entire losses of stock, home and grain. The amount raised thus far is $7,000, which includes donations of livestock, grain and money.

Flood Victims Campaign Fund Seeking Objective of $50,000

With an objective of $50,000 in view, the Alberta Livestock Co-operative Limited has set up a Flood Victims Campaign fund which will assist the farmers who suffered losses in the Athabasca, Pembina and Paddle river floods. Homes, possessions, and livestock have been seriously damaged and in many cases completely destroyed by the floods, and it is the hope of the Cooperative Limited to repair the damage as much and as quickly as possible.

The fund was started on June 26, and R. M. MacCrimmon is chairman of the committee in charge. Distribution of the donations will be handled through the municipalities, councils and secretary-treasurers. O. S. Longman and A. M. Wilson of the provincial agriculture department are making survey work of the damaged areas. From a survey of 25 farms it is estimated that there has been a 90 per cent loss in the grain crop. Estimate on the livestock loss has not been announced, but it is expected to be high.

Donations have already been received from city and rural business firms, grain growers and farmers unions, clubs and individuals.

G. M. Thomas, official representative and fund solicitor, who Thursday returned from a survey of the flooded areas, said that horses and cows who had survived were suffering from bad cases of foot rot from which gangrene had developed. These animals would have to be killed. Smaller animals, such as pigs, had disappeared entirely in most cases.

ward east of the town and made slight gains directly southward. The Caumont wedge was widened and additional elbow room gained to enable a greater use of armor when the British command decides to commit its armored formations in a major attack.

Both sides of the Ordon-Orne salient were straightened out in difficult operations against savage German resistance, the spokesman said.

RE-ENTER TOWN

The American attack at St. Lo came as other elements of the 1st Army were fighting their way back into the streets of La Haye-Du Puits and outflanking columns were threatening to surround the embattled town.

A two-hour drumfire barrage from hundreds of guns opened the new offensive at 4:30 a.m. Gorrell reported.

The infantry was advancing through deep mud, the result of a night of intermittent rain. Defying gray clouds and low visibility, Allied divebombers roared over the front soon after the start of the drive and began blasting enemy lines and communications over a wide area in the St. Lo region to block German reinforcements.

The offensive was believed de-

All work in connection with the fund is voluntary, said Mr. MacCrimmon, and no expenses are attached to it. Donations of grain, livestock, money, etc., has reached approximately $7,000 to date, according to the secretary, Miss Louise H. O'Neill.

Lorne Campbell, grain grower superintendent, and liaison officer from the Pembina-Paddle River district, is here to confer with the committee.

ON COMMITTEE

Others on the committee besides those already mentioned are: Claude Campbell, George Winke, A. E. Long and R. M. Hibbert. Patrician, Johnstone and Company, auditors, is the auditing firm setting voluntarily.

On July 26 there will be an auction sale at the Exhibition grounds when various donations will be auctioned to raise money for the flood victims.

Among the larger donations received were: One car load of prepared grain from the United Grain Growers Limited, $1,200 from the Blindman Valley Livestock Association at Bentley; $50 from the Royal George and Leland hotels; poultry from the Provincial Hatchery; one heifer from Mrs. M. B. A. Moreau, Fort Saskatchewan; a Jersey heifer from J. R. Love; $10 from McDermid Studios; $25 individually from Mrs. Eula Petrik of Pibroch, H. M. Clark, Derwent Livestock Marketing, Transit Hotel Company, and Ponoka Livestock board of directors; and $15 from Weber Brothers Ltd. Many donations of $5 and $2 have been received, besides other gifts of animals and grain.

signed to eliminate the German salient between the Carentan-Periers and Carentan-St. Lo highways, from which the Germans have been shelling the narrow coastal corridor between the Cherbourg peninsula and Bayeux-Caen sectors of the 1315-square mile Allied beachhead.

It also appeared that Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery was bent on straightening the entire Allied line by bringing the Americans abreast of the British and Canadians as a prelude to a general offensive. The current American push put Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's 1st Army on the offensive all along its front from the west coast to the Vire River, above St. Lo.

GOEBBELS HINTS REICH'S BACK IS AGAINST WALL

LONDON, July 7.—(AP)—Dr. Joseph Goebbels yesterday told the world that the Germans will continue fighting as "a people now most dangerous because we have burned our bridges and have nothing more to lose."

In his weekly article in "Das Reich," the Nazi propaganda minister said: "This war can no longer shake us. We have lost too much already, and the nation is in a state where its last reserves are bare. For us this is no longer a war that may end in victory or defeat—it is a war at the end of which there will be for us either no world at all or a new world."

Germans Reach Starting Point Of Russian War

Kowal, added the customary propaganda claim that the wedge was "eliminated by counter-attack."

OTHER REVERSES

Fighting was widespread in the Kowal-Luck-Tarnopol area of lower Poland, the Berlin broadcast said, and of such an intensity as to indicate a brewing general offensive.

Other Nazi broadcasts acknowledged major reverses in the main sectors of the eastern battlefield. They admitted that the Russians had driven to the outskirts of Marowice in a drive against the strategic gap on the westward invasion route, and said the Germans had pulled back to new positions before Wilno.

Soviet dispatches said the Red Army was racing over the approaches to Wilno, gateway to Lithuania, and the historic Baranowicz gap "for decisive attacks on these key points in the German defenses barring the way into Lithuania and towards East Prussia."

German and Russian reports agreed that the battle zone was spreading southward in the Kowal region of old Poland as Red Army forces swung into action against the lower end of the primary Nazi defense line athwart the road to Berlin.

GERMAN ADMISSION

The German DNB News Agency said the fighting extended to new areas around Kowal, Luck and Tarnopol yesterday, and "in numerous places the Bolsheviks advanced toward the German lines."

Powerful Soviet armored formations struck westward from the Kowal area toward the Bug River 40 miles to the west, the border of the so-called "Government General" of Poland, the central section dominated by the Nazis under the pretense of semi-autonomy.

In the southern part of the eastern front the enemy carried out several unsuccessful attacks between the Upper Dnestr and Kowal," the German high command reported.

WELL PLANNED ATTACK

Moscow dispatches revealed that Kowal, 175 miles southeast of Moscow, fell to the Russians as a result of a carefully-developed plan. Heavy fighting went on in the vicinity for many months, even before Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's first army of White Russia took over from Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's first army of the Ukraine several weeks ago.

Long ago the Soviets closed against Kowal from three sides, but the spring thaw converted the outlying marshes into impassable barriers, and an entire new system of communications had to be devised before the final storming of the city was undertaken.

DNB said that on the Wilno front "Soviet pressure had no success in the face of a strong German bolt position, which however compared with yesterday's situation had to be taken back somewhat to the west"—a cognize some piece of jewelry, a shoe, a charred scrap of a dress.

Governor Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut was at the scene quickly and remained until late in the night. Nurses' aides and volunteer workers toiled through the night, aiding both the injured and the grief-stricken survivors.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

Cause of the blaze remained undetermined today, but an investigation was started immediately under the governor's direction.

Warrants charging four circus officials with manslaughter were issued last night by police court prosecutor S. Burr Leikind, who said other arrests might be made today. The four named in the warrants were J. A. Haley, vice-president of the circus company, George Smith, general manager, John Brice, chief of circus police, and Leonard Aylesworth, listed as chief canvas man.

Only the first act, the performance of the trained animals, had been completed when the blaze, at first so small that, as one witness said, it could have been extinguished with a bucket of water, was seen near the main entrance of the big top.

Survivors agreed that the circus staff had tried valiantly to prevent panic. The first move toward the exits was orderly and many of the children making their way from the tiers of seats were seen laughing excitedly.

CROWD TERRIFIED

But when the flames roared with terrifying speed to consume the entire canvas roof, the audience became a fighting, screaming, terror-stricken mass.

Some children dropped to the ground were trampled unconscious by others jumping behind them. Others were tangled in the blazing canvas.

The performing animals had been safely herded through the caged runway back to their truck when the blaze was first seen and only five performers, the "Flying Walendas" were in the arena.

Most of Wheat Crop Reported In Shot Blade

WINNIPEG, July 7.—Most of the wheat crop of Western Canada is in shot blade, with earlier sown headed out. Coarse grains show about one third of this progress, according to the weekly crop report of the department of agriculture of the Canadian National Railways. No extensive pest damage is noticeable and subject to normal ripening weather indications are for a good crop this season.

In southern Alberta, weather has been warm with light scattered showers. More rain is needed as surplus moisture is not sufficient to last any great length of time. Crop conditions vary and there has been very little damage reported from pests. Indications are for about an average crop. Weather generally has been warm with light rains over most of the Edmonton division.

Churchill Pledges Full Aid to China

LONDON, July 7.—(AP)—In a message to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek yesterday, Mr. Churchill declared: "When victory in the west is won—and victory now seems sure—we shall fulfill our pledge to bring our whole weight to bear on Japan." The message was sent as China entered her 8th year of war.

Japs Use Gas

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP)—General Shang Chen, head of the Chinese military mission to the United States, said yesterday at a press conference that the Japanese have resorted to the extensive use of mustard and tear gas in their drive in China, and have used chemical warfare indiscriminately against Chinese civilians.

new way of backing into an admission of a retreat.

The agency also said the Russians had scored new advances toward Baranowicz, adding that bitter fighting now was raging eastward of the town. Moscow had announced the capture of strong points only nine miles from it.

Seek Abatement Odor, Dust From Grain Platforms

Members of the city council's by-laws committee Thursday recommended that a request be made to the managers of the United Grain Growers Ltd., and to North West Mill and Feed Co. Ltd., to tightly enclose unloading platforms as a measure to abate an alleged dust and odor nuisance in the vicinity of their plants.

Complaint made by residents of the district was investigated by the committee following representations made by A. J. Mainwaring on behalf of home owners in the district.

J. E. Brownlee, K.C., representing the U.G.G. Co., said he had been instructed by the directors of the company to state that any precautions that would better safeguard the interests of home owners in the territory would be installed by his company. He invited the committee to send technical men to survey the situation at the U.G.G. plant and said any recommendations made would be carried out.

Mr. Brownlee said that any nuisance complained of did not originate at the U.G.G. plant.

READY TO HELP

Carl W. Clement, K.C., for North-West Mill and Feed Co., said that new machinery was being installed at this plant that would abate the dust nuisance. This would be working in about two weeks, he said. He said his company was prepared to meet any reasonable suggestion to assist in operation with the least inconvenience to residents in the district.

Army Recruiting Reveals Increase

Applications for enlistment in the Canadian Active Army at the Edmonton recruiting centre were almost three times as great for June this year as for the same month last year, and the educational standing of the applicants has risen considerably.

This province requires 5,000 enlistments before the end of August to fill its quota of the 48,000 men required in the Dominion. The recruiting centre report for last month shows a total of 143 applicants, compared with 50 in the same month last year.

Four university students were included in the men making application and the largest percentage had Grade 8 standing. This year there were 17 more high school students seeking enlistment than in the same month last year.

Police Searching For Cheque Artist

A cheque artist was being sought Friday by city police, in connection with the passing of a cheque, said to have been made out in the name of an Edmonton firm and cashed in another place of business. The full amount of the cheque, $63.24, was handed over to the man presenting it, at which time he had indicated his desire to buy a pair of trousers.

Frank G. Heron, accountant, Hart Bros. Limited, informed police that the man he described presented the cheque in that store on June 30. It was not until later that it was learned the man had left the store without making the purchase, and that he had joined another man who had been waiting outside the store.

Some time after the document was found to be worthless. Police investigations are continuing.

Officers Brand Waste Charges As Being False

Charges of deliberate wholesale destruction of used and brand new merchandise, the property of the United States of America at Dawson Creek and Fort St. John on Friday, were branded as "untrue" by U.S. and Canadian authorities in Edmonton.

A story by a Vancouver newspaper man, B. A. McKelvie, appearing in the Vancouver Province on Thursday claimed the author had visited dumps where stoves, furnaces, bags, blankets and camp equipment are being destroyed.

Col. Frederick S. Strong, commanding officer, the Northwest Service Command, U.S. Army said the charges that the U.S. Army's salvage of material is wasteful, and that Canadians are not being given a chance to purchase U.S. equipment which may be surplus in northwest Canada, are not true.

He pointed out that the Canadian government, through Maj.-Gen. W. Foster, C.M.G., D.S.O., V.D., special commissioner for defence projects in northwest Canada, is being given every opportunity to absorb surplus material for which there is not essential need in the U.S.

"A board of officers has been appointed at Dawson Creek to examine all material being salvaged and that material which, when reconditioned, will not meet the U.S. Army minimum standards for salvaged material is being destroyed," Col. Strong stated.

Mr. McKelvie claimed he saw carloads of heavy equipment, tractors, bulldozers, compressors and trucks, going through central British Columbia on the way back to the United States. He said he was told that most of it would be broken up on arrival there and claimed most of it had been made useless before leaving.

Maj.-Gen. Foster said the policy so far had been to move a great deal of equipment from the northern area to other war projects in the United States with the exception of that being taken over by the Canadian government for construction and maintenance work.

AN AGREEMENT

He pointed out that there is a very definite agreement between the government of the two countries regarding surplus equipment. If the U.S. has no further use for immovable equipment and property it reverts to the Dominion government, and in the case of movable equipment it is sold to the Dominion government which in turn is making it available to Canadian contractors for use on northern defence projects.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION
What is your reaction to the belief that the census now being made by the city will show an increase in the number of permanent residents here?

THE ANSWERS

JIM TOWNSEND, clerk: I would be surprised if that were not the case. With the increased importance of this city it is bound to be a steady gain in population. I am of the opinion that as soon as the Axis partners unconditionally surrender that the population will increase even more rapidly.

HARRY SIMPSON, salesman: With the ever-growing importance of Edmonton as an agricultural, commercial, industrial, manufacturing and aviation centre it would be amazing if the city did not continue to grow. And there is more to come.

THOMAS MARSDEN, student: It is good to hear that the population is rising steadily. There is no doubt that this city is on the way to even greater things. With the immense natural resources in the territory of which Edmonton is the centre, there is bound to be a greater growth in the future.

Back on Duty

Det.-Sgt. Herbert B. Petheram, and Mrs. Petheram, returned to the city this week after a fortnight spent in Winnipeg. The former resumed his duties at city police headquarters Friday morning.

Householders Urged to Buy Fuel Supply

Appeal was made Friday by W. J. Taylor, Calgary, regional allocation office for the Dominion fuel controller, asking householders to make immediate purchase of the winter coal requirements.

Mr. Taylor pointed out that in the Edmonton field the closing of the Dawson and Bush mines resulted in the loss of 100,000 tons annually, and also that intermittent work in the mines in this territory through lack of orders had reduced potential output this year by a further 50,000 tons.

He said that a survey of the supply situation made on the prairies indicated that dealers were well stocked with coal, but were unable to place orders for further supplies until the consumer orders gave them available storage space.

MAKE MORE SPACE

He urged that house holders immediately place their orders for their winter supply of coal with dealers and take delivery as soon as possible to make the storage space available for further supplies from the mines.

Commenting on the Edmonton supply situation, Mr. Taylor said that in this immediate territory it was one of purchase direct from the companies mining the coal, and that it resolved itself into a customer-trucker-producer affair.

The delay of purchase of winter supplies might result in residents failing to obtain their supplies when needed because of the declining volume of trucking facilities. Mr. Taylor pointed out. He urged immediate action by consumers to start an orderly purchasing of their coal supplies. He pointed out that government credit assistance was again available this year.

City May Change Location Museum

Edmonton's Museum of Arts, now located on the fourth floor of the Civic block, will be moved to the Public Library building if negotiations now under way are completed.

The space in which the museum is located is urgently needed for the extension of the health department and other civic offices. Representations have been made by the commissioners to the Museum of Arts' executive and to the library board, and it is understood that satisfactory arrangements for the transfer of the museum from the Civic block to the library building have been completed.

A report on the proposed changes will be made to Monday night's city council meeting.

Garden Competition Is Planned in City

The Edmonton Horticultural Society's garden competitions close on Wednesday, July 12. The following classes will be judged: Home garden, public or industrial grounds or golf grounds, lawn and decorative house fronts, under 33 feet, and more than 33 feet frontage. Phone the office for prize list or call at 10180 100 street.

Loses Two Steers

Two steers, which escaped from a truck at 114 avenue and Fort Trail about 6:25 p.m., Thursday, could not be found, Anthony Zelinski of Clyde, driver of the vehicle told city police.

Zelinski said he had stopped at a stop sign at the intersection when the tail gate broke. The two animals leaped out and galloped away. The animals were owned by James McNamara of Boyle, he said.

Revenue from the city telephone system from Jan. 1 to July 3, 1944, amounted to $496,562.01 compared with $454,928.21 for the same period of 1943, an increase of $41,633.80, according to a statement filed Friday with the city commissioners by Robert Christie, superintendent of the system.

He is a past president of the Rotary club of Oakland, and last year was governor of District No. 105 of Rotary International. He is vice-chairman of the committee which supervises relief activities for Rotarians in war-stricken countries. He spoke on "Business Pattern Makers."

Club Speaker Draws Pattern For Business

Making employees happy is not just humanitarian, it is economics itself, Riley W. Doe, Oakland, California, vice-president in charge of public relations for Safeway Stores Ltd., told Rotary club members at a luncheon at the Macdonald hotel on Thursday.

Mr. Doe, who is a past president of the Oakland Rotary club, and last year was governor of District 105 of Rotary International, spoke on "Business Pattern Makers."

He said that in industry the craftsman known as "pattern makers" were the highly skilled technical and efficient workmen who cut out patterns or models for others to follow.

MUST BE SKILLED

"If we business men are to qualify adequately to that specification we likewise must be highly skilled, technical and efficient in our several vocational pursuits. We must have the trained touch of the technician, but in addition must have the very personal touch of the humanitarian," he said.

"Businessmen today are looking ahead to the employment problems which will be theirs upon the cessation of hostilities. Thousands of returning servicemen will be looking for jobs. Whether or not they voluntarily come back to their former employer may depend largely upon how well they were treated before they left for the armed forces. With this in mind, employers might well give immediate thought to those standards of employment which will prove attractive and substantial to any such job-seekers.

"The proper objective is to make of your vocation not just a front by which you are recognized, but rather should you make of it a thoughtful human service for which you are respected. There is a vast difference between being recognized and being respected—you might recognize a gangster but you wouldn't respect him.

"To make employees happier is not just humanitarian... it is economics itself. The pursuit of this objective must include adequate understanding of public relations. Good public relations are simply good private relations turned inside out. In other words, things must be right inside your business before they will appear right outside. No amount of high-powered press agency will for long fool the public or your employees.

REFLECTS STANDARDS

"Your advertising can reflect your standards—your advertisements take on dignity in a legitimate newspaper. The newspaper is a definite asset to a modern city. It is more than a commercial enterprise—it is a social necessity. Start out with this understanding and you will immediately consider your advertising not just an expense but rather an investment for future dividends.

"All employers want employee loyalty but many do not get it because too many employers think that employee loyalty should start at the bottom of the ranks and work upward. Employee loyalty must start at the top and filter down through the ranks, and please note I said 'filter'... not 'Gush'."

"The best trained employee is generally the most loyal employee, therefore might we not ask ourselves are we giving proper attention to employee training?

COVERS WIDE FIELD

"This applies not only to stores, factories or banks—it applies likewise to professional offices where quite often we are greeted by a haughty receptionist who, though she may work for the finest surgeon or the finest barrister in town, nevertheless if she is not properly trained, or rather if she did not have the right personality in the first place, she quite likely is not making business friends for her employer," said Mr. Doe.

"Our concluding deduction therefore might well be—let's be sure that we are business pattern makers of sufficient ability, perspective and honesty to cut the type of pattern which will be attractive to employees and to customers alike."

Miss Maloney Pledges Vows

Peonies and snapdragons decorated Metropolitan United Church for the wedding Friday at 9 a.m. of Miss Maxine Louise Maloney, only daughter of Daniel Maloney of Brule and the late Mrs. Maloney, and Philip Arthur Taylor, only son of P. P. Taylor, of The Pas, Man., and the late Mrs. Taylor. The Rev. R. McElroy Thompson performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length white broadcloth gown fashioned on princess lines having a fitted bodice with a sweetheart neckline and leg-o-mutton sleeves coming to lily points at the wrists. The skirt was full and flared. Her long veil fell softly from a halo of the net caught with a single red rose. She carried a shower bouquet of American Beauty roses and gardenias. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

BRIDESMAID

Miss Betty Third was bridesmaid, wearing a slipper-length powder blue sheer gown with a chapel veil in matching color and carrying a colonial bouquet of sweetheart roses and white sweetpeas.

Gerald McIsaac was best man and the usher was Daniel Cochran. After the ceremony a reception for 30 guests was held in the drawing room of the Macdonald hotel, where the bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake surrounded by white tulips. Vases of pink and white snapdragons and tall lighted white tapers decorated the bride's table. Mr. Thompson proposed the toast to the bride.

Mrs. Clayton Third, aunt of the bride, received with the wedding party, wearing a two-piece sea foam green crepe frock, black hat and accessories and a corsage of tallman roses.

Later the couple left for a honeymoon in Calgary, the bride traveling in a powder blue two-piece crepe frock, hat to match and white accessories. A corsage of gardenias completed her ensemble.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Taylor will make their home in Edmonton.

City Grants

Permission

Erect Tents

Permission has been granted by the city commissioners to the Northwestern Utilities Ltd., to set up tents on its downtown property to house laborers. It is proposed to bring men to Edmonton to work on the installation of services to Edmonton homes now under construction.

CRITICAL SHORTAGE

The very critical housing shortage in Edmonton prompted the commissioners to grant permission to the company to erect the tents,
Major John W. Fry stated Friday, and it now remains to be seen whether or not the tent-housing proposal will be acceptable to the minister of labor.

Mr. Garrett stated Friday that he had written to Hon. Humphrey Mitchell pointing out the very serious labor shortage that existed here, and also that if more men were not made available immediately it would be impossible for the company to complete the installations for which applications have already been received.

He said that a request has been made to the minister for 55 men to be sent to Edmonton, 40 of whom would be put to work on installations in the city, and 15 of them on maintenance work on the main pipeline and in the Viking field.

Mr. Garrett said that permanent camps were available for those going to work on the pipeline project, and it has been suggested to the minister that the use of tents would solve the housing problem in the city.

SECOND TOP

He said that these tents would carry a second top which would make them absolutely water-tight, that they would be furnished with cots and mattresses, and would have board floors. Men would be required to supply their own blankets.

Shower bath and lavatory facilities would be provided in the com-
